THE TEXAS SCULPTURE GARDEN

A four-acre tract of land at the entrance to HALL Park was reserved as a special tribute to Texas artists and their work. Designed with lakes, water features, native landscaping and walking trails, the outdoor portion of the Texas Sculpture Garden surrounds the lake just outside the 6801 Gaylord Parkway building. The collection continues inside the building's lobby.

ABOUT THE CURATOR

PATRICIA B. MEADOWS

Patricia B. Meadows served as the art curator for the selection and installation of works of art for the HALL Collection, the Texas Sculpture Walk at HALL Arts and the Texas Sculpture Garden at HALL Park. Meadows works closely with architects, designers and landscape consultants, and is passionate about contemporary art produced by professional Texas artists.

"Each sculpture in the Texas Sculpture Garden was carefully chosen to contribute to the wide variety of styles, materials and expertise we want to showcase," says Meadows. "We selected artists living in urban and rural communities across Texas, ranging in ages from late-30s to mid-80s. Each is an established artist and well known in their region. It has been a pleasure and privilege to highlight their work in this important collection and setting."

ABOUT

CRAIG & KATHRYN HALL

Craig Hall's appreciation for the arts began at a very early age. His mother Eleanor, an artist and art teacher, inspired her family to look at life and art in a unique and personal way. Hall began purchasing art as a teenager. Today, his collection is comprised of hundreds of important works - paintings, sculpture and historically significant photographs - by established and emerging artists from around the world.

Craig's wife Kathryn, the former U.S. Ambassador to Austria, shares this love for culture and the arts. While serving in Vienna and throughout their travels, Craig and Kathryn have added to their collection with pieces from Australia, Central Europe, Africa and Asia. Art is an integral component of the Halls' business and personal lives.
